

Green Dot Institute

Registration Information

The Green Dot Prevention Strategy is comprised of three components: (1) Workshops, (2) Social Marketing Campaigns, and (3) Evaluation. Each component can be delivered to members of the campus community in-person, virtually, or both. When implemented effectively, these components can drive behavior change and ultimately transform campus culture. For more information about the strategy go to our website.

Training

The Green Dot Institute (GDI) is a two-part implementation training that certifies participants to implement Green Dot on their college campus: (1) Coordinating Team Training, and (2) Instructor Training.

Part One: Coordinating Team Training

The Coordinating Team Training is a half-day virtual course that certifies participants to serve as coordinators. The Team is responsible for strategic planning, logistics, oversight, and ensuring each component of the Green Dot Prevention Strategy is done with fidelity. Coordinators also serve as the primary contact for the designated Alteristic staff providing implementation support.

Campus Requirements:

- The Coordinating Team must be comprised of at least two campus staff.
- The Coordinating Team Training must be completed by each team member.
- If the Coordinating Team Training is not completed by the required number of employees before the Instructor Training, materials necessary for implementation will be withheld until such time there is a Certified Coordinating Team. An additional webinar requiring attendance from both the Coordinating Team and the Instructors may be required. There will be additional costs associated.
- Each coordinator must attend the entirety of both the Coordinating Team Training and the Instructor Training to be certified.

Campus Recommendations:

- More than two coordinators are highly recommended to share the workload and to help ensure uninterrupted implementation if there is staff attrition.
- Since certified coordinators will be working as a team, whenever possible, the team should be trained together. The training is very applied and will involve each campus working on their strategic plan, timeline, etc.

Part Two: Instructor Training

The Instructor Training is a two-day (15 hour) course that is offered virtually. The course prepares instructors to deliver Green Dot workshops with a focus on content mastery, effective facilitation, fidelity, and engaging delivery. The training experience is highly interactive and often personally challenging. The course is designed to inspire and strengthen the hope of participants – and equip each participant to inspire hope in those who attend their workshops.

Campus Requirements:

- To implement the Green Dot Strategy, each campus is required to certify a certain number of instructors based on the undergraduate student population as indicated below:

Undergraduate Enrollment	Required # of Instructors
3,000 or less	3 instructors
3,001 – 10,000	7 instructors
10,001 – 15,000	8 instructors
15,000 or more	10 instructors

- Participants from community agencies with a history of partnering with your campus (e.g., local domestic violence or sexual assault resource centers) are permitted to attend a GDI and become a certified instructor to provide support and strengthen the implementation team. However, employees from outside agencies cannot serve as coordinators, and can only implement as part of an established campus of Certified Green Dot Instructors.

Campus Recommendations

- The requirements above are absolute minimums. Based on experience, we highly recommend building a team as large as possible to account for attrition due to staff turnover or team members getting pulled to other priorities. Having more instructors can diminish attrition by spreading the workload, requiring less time of faculty and staff serving as instructors.

- We recommend a diverse team of instructors that includes not only designated prevention/intervention staff, but also employees from groups such as faculty, student affairs staff, athletics, residence life, advising, and administrators, etc.
